LEST WE FORGET
1914 - 2014

Father of all, remember your holy promises, and look with love on all your people, living and departed. We especially ask that you would look for ever so who suffered during the First World War, those who returned scarred by war, those who were wounded, and those who were disabled, those who were killed and suffered loss, those who were orphaned and suffered loss, those who were widowed and suffered loss, those who were bereaved and suffered loss, those who were lonely and suffered loss, those who were sick and suffered loss, those who were old and suffered loss, those who were young and suffered loss, those who were brave and suffered loss, those who were kind and suffered loss, those who were true and suffered loss, those who were good and suffered loss, those who were great and suffered loss, those who were holy and suffered loss, those who were just and suffered loss, those who were merciful and suffered loss, those who were loving and suffered loss, those who were kind and suffered loss, those who were true and suffered loss, those who were good and suffered loss, those who were great and suffered loss, those who were holy and suffered loss, those who were just and suffered loss, those who were merciful and suffered loss, those who were loving and suffered loss.

They shall grow not old,
as we that are left grow old;
Age shall not weary them,
nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun
and in the morning
We will remember them.
